Who do Crisis Pregnancy Centers Serve?

In a perfect world, every woman facing pregnancy would be surrounded with supportive friends and family, sufficient material resources, and know all the choices open to her.

Crisis pregnancy centers serve everyone else.

What services do they offer?

Crisis Pregnancy Centers provide some or all of these services, often free of charge:

- Counseling
- Pregnancy tests
- Ultrasounds
- 24/7 hotlines
- Help with food, shelter, baby supplies, childcare
- Help with medical care
- Adoption counseling
- Prenatal information and support
- Childbirth classes
- Legal assistance
- Parenting classes and support
- Help with vocational training
- Help after a miscarriage
- Post-abortion care
- But most of all, someone to listen

How are they supported?

Unlike Planned Parenthood and other abortion organizations, which receive millions of taxpayer dollars every year, crisis pregnancy centers rely solely on the generosity of private individuals.

You can help by

- donating money or supplies
- fundraising
- volunteering your time and talents, from cutting grass and shoveling snow to answering hotline calls to providing medical services.
- your prayers
